

Congress Must Vote on Reciprocity Measure

TAFT TO USE "UTMOST EFFORT" TO BRING ABOUT ITS PASSAGE.

EXTRA SESSION IF NECESSARY

Representative McCall Visits White House and Gives Out Statement of Taft's Views.

Washington, Feb. 20. — Through Representative Samuel W. McCall, of Massachusetts, President Taft notifies congress and the country of his intention to call a special session of congress in the event of the failure by the senate to vote on the Canadian reciprocity agreement. The president's determination in this matter is clearly disclosed in a formal statement given out by the Massachusetts representative as he was leaving the White House after a conference with Mr. Taft. Opponents of the reciprocity plan in the senate have been hoping that the special session talk would prove groundless, but this statement knocks the last prop from under them on this score.

Representative McCall, obviously speaking by authority of the president, not only makes it clear that congress will be called back if the senate fails to vote on the agreement, but also serves notice that members who block action on reciprocity at this session will be held responsible for any business depression or disturbance that may result from attempted tariff revision by the Democrats in a special session.

The McCall statement goes further. Through it President Taft emphasizes his warning to the Republican party that unless they are prepared now to yield something in the interest of a reasonable policy of protection an opposition will spring up that will wipe from the statute books "the last trace of a protective tariff."

Mr. McCall's statement makes it apparent that Mr. Taft is not talking special session by way of a threat.

The agreement between the governments pledges each to use its "utmost efforts" to bring about the passage of the legislation. The president feels that his power to call an extraordinary session of congress is included in this "utmost efforts" pledge and that he is in honor bound to fulfill it.

Here is the statement that Representative McCall handed out as he was leaving the White House:

"I believe Republican senators are gradually coming to recognize that with the certain prospect of an extra session unless they bring the reciprocity bill to a vote, there will be very serious inconveniences and embarrassment, if not danger, to the business and industrial enterprises that are really entitled to protection. The president feels that he is under an international obligation to summon an extra session. He will do this reluctantly because it is bringing into power a Democratic house and a senate much more nearly Democratic than the present senate. But if the senate fails to act, the president feels that under his agreement with the Canadian government to use his utmost endeavor to have the reciprocity agreement confirmed he will be compelled to call the session immediately.

"But what an extra session is likely to mean is a constant agitation and a continuous investigation into the industries that are made possible by protection and interference with their business that bodes no good for business at large. The consequence is that if any one should prevent action on the reciprocity bill he would be in the position of helping to bring about a condition most injurious to these industries which really need protection. What follows in an extra session will not be the president's fault. The president is a protectionist and expects to use the veto so far as he properly may, to maintain the party's protective principles. But it would be a misfortune to have this inevitable conflict come nine months ahead of the time when it is naturally due."

It is expected that the measure will be reported out of the senate finance committee on Thursday without recommendation.

While the resignation of Minister Gage has not yet been filed, it is known he intends to quit the mission soon.

LAST WEEK OF REVIVAL SERVICES

GREAT AUDIENCES WERE PRESENT AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH ON SUNDAY.

Sunday was a great day at the Christian church revival now in progress. The auditorium was filled both morning and evening and a splendid spirit prevailed. More than enough money was raised in five minutes at the morning service to finance the meetings. Rev. Fisher preached in the morning on the subject, "Sons of God." Some pronounced it the best sermon of his ministry here. In the evening he spoke on "Almost Persuaded." There was one conversion at the evening service, making 37 added to the churches when he has preached that sermon.

Baptismal services are being arranged for this week to follow the evening service. The quartet number last evening by Miss Estella and Tillie Rice and Messrs. Elmer Rice and Clinton Fahrney was very highly spoken of, as was the solo by Mr. Rice, "For You I Am Praying."

Mr. Rice will sing tonight, "Enough for Me," and Rev. Fisher will deliver a diagram sermon. Come and help.

LIGHTING SYSTEMS BEING INVESTIGATED

CITY COUNCIL COMMITTEE IS IN CHICAGO AND EVANS- TON TODAY.

INSPECTING OTHER SYSTEMS

Will Also Visit Aurora and Rochelle Where Model Plants Are in Operation.

Dixon is preparing to install a new lighting system. What system it will be remains to be seen. The city council is getting ready to take some decided action on the lighting proposition soon. This morning Aldermen Mark D. Smith and A. J. Scriven, members of the council fire and lighting committee, went to Chicago and Evanston to look over the system in those two cities, more especially the system in Evanston. The other member of the committee, Alderman Andrew J. Graff, accompanied by Mrs. Graff, went to Chicago Sunday morning and met his colleagues in Chicago this morning.

With this lighting proposition the council deems it advisable to go slowly. But what is done in this matter will be well done. The present lighting franchise expires soon and if Dixon installs a new system at all, now is the time to do so.

It is probable that Aurora will be visited before anything is done here, for that city is one of the best lighted cities in the state. It would be well to visit Rochelle also, for that bustling and enterprising little city has installed a lighting system that would be a credit to any city much larger than Rochelle.

The committee will be able to furnish the council with a detailed report at the next regular session in March.

FIREMAN FOR GOVERNMENT BLDG.

JOHN DUFFY RECEIVED THE APPOINTMENT AFTER PASSING EXAMINATION

John Duffy, Squires avenue, North Dixon, has been appointed to the position of fireman for the new federal building. Some time ago Mr. Duffy took a civil service examination in this city and last Saturday Postmaster Frye received notice that Mr. Duffy had passed the examination successfully and the appointment should go to him. Accordingly the postmaster made the appointment.

Mr. Duffy's many friends will be pleased to hear of his good fortune in landing this excellent position. The examination was quite rigid and if an applicant did not possess thorough knowledge of firing it would have been impossible to get a passing grade. Mr. Duffy has been identified with boilers for years. He has fired large boilers in this city and his work has always been satisfactory. He has a splendid knowledge of firing and in this position, like all others he has filled, he will make good.

Henry Wood has been appointed to the position of laborer about the federal building. He, like Mr. Duffy, had to write an examination, along different lines, however, and he having also made the required grades, was appointed to the position by Postmaster Frye.

WATER SAVED LIVES OF ONE HUNDRED AND TWELVE PERSONS.

FIRE DISCOVERED BY THE PILOT

Flames Became so Hot That Sailors Had to Turn the Water on Passengers.

Mazatlan, Lower Cal., Feb. 20.—Every one in town was on the water front watching the blazing steamer Benito Juarez as she came toward the harbor under a full head of steam.

One hundred and twelve passengers jumped into the shallow water of the bay and saved their lives, but lost all baggage.

The flames were discovered by the pilot, who boarded the steamer outside of the breakwater. He found the coal bunkers on fire. The crew fought vainly.

The flames became so hot that the sailors ceased playing water on the fire and turned the streams on the passengers, whose clothing began to catch fire. No lives were lost.

BOARD RECOMMENDS LOCAL IMPROVEMENTS

GALENA AVE. SEWER AND M'KINNEY, SECOND AND HIGHLAND WORK CONSIDERED.

The board of local improvements conducted a public hearing this morning in the city council rooms with reference to proposed sewer extensions. In the absence of Mayor Edwards, chairman of the board, Alderman John McIntyre was selected chairman pro tem. The first project considered was an extension of the Galena avenue sewer from Seventh street to Tenth street and about two hundred feet west on Tenth street. This will be a sanitary and storm sewer with an overflow extension on East Seventh street to the natural drainage crossing that street between Galena and Ottawa avenues. Engineer Neighbour's estimate for this improvement is $2,201.44. The owners of a majority of the property involved did not object to the improvement, so the board passed a resolution, on motion of Alderman Boyce, recommending that the improvement be made. The present council will not have time to act upon this resolution, so it will be tabled awaiting the action of the members of the new commission form of government.

Board Adheres to Resolution.

The board of local improvements adhered to the resolution in the McKinney street improvement and ordered preparation of an ordinance for submission to the council. This improvement is designated as ordinance No. 126, series 1911.

The same thing was done in the improvement on Second street and Highland avenue, although the board ordered slight alterations in the work and ordered the engineer's estimate to be made in accordance therewith. The date set for a subsequent hearing thereon was fixed at 3:30 p. m., Tuesday.

This improvement is designated as ordinance No. 128, series 1911.

FROST DID NOT HURT TEXAS ORANGES

Robin Hartwell arrived home this noon from a visit of two months with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hartwell, at Blessing, Texas. On his way home he stopped at Alvin, near Algon, where a number of Dixon people have invested. The severe frost that visited that section a few weeks ago, at which time the temperature dropped to 12 above zero, did very little, if any, damage to the oranges and all kinds of crops are looking fine. Flowers are in bloom all over that section. Mr. Hartwell says that his sister will come home in about two weeks.

ROCK FALLS MEN CAUGHT FISH IN ROAD

Sterling Standard: This is no nature faking story. Yesterday several Rock Falls men went aunting near Nelson. In one place the creek had swollen over its banks and onto the road, afterwards receding. The creek went down so rapidly when the gorge broke that numberless fish of all sizes and descriptions were left flopping and gasping in the middle of the road. In some places they were so thick that the horse had to step carefully to avoid tramping on them. The men jumped from the bug gy, caught a mess of fish with their naked hands and threw the remainder back into the creek. The fish that they had for supper and for dinner today bear witness that their tale is one of veracity.

SORE FEET AND CHILBLAINS

HEALO IS A BLESSING FOR TIRE-D, ACHING, SWOLLEN, TEND-ER AND PRICKLING FEET

Instant relief may be had from chilblains or when your feet are tired, sore or swollen. Just use HEALO. A preparation made from the formula of an old army surgeon who used it for many years keeping the feet of the U. S. troops in perfect condition, no matter how hard the work or how long the marches.

HEALO is something different from anything sold for foot comfort. An antiseptic powder, spray, odorless and cooling, cleanses the pores and makes diseased tissue healthy. HEALO makes sweet, velvet skin and ends the embarrassments and odors attending excessive unhealthy perspiration.

CHILBLAINS are wonderfully relieved by the use of HEALO.

"For Heaven's sake everybody, try HEALO!" is the way one user puts it. "It's a wonder!" If you haven't yet tried HEALO, you ought to. It will benefit your feet the minute you begin to use it—right this minute.

A little sprinkled on your feet in the morning, or right now, and glory, dandy feet, and dandy walking the rest of the day. You can kick around and use your feet any way you like all day long. HEALO is sold in spray top boxes, the most convenient form for ready use. All Dix on Druggists sell HEALO at 25c, and they will be pleased to send to out-of-town customers, postage paid upon receipt of price.

Haunted by a dream that he had seen the body of Ermine Haeley, a young man who was accidentally drowned last week by falling into the Kaskaskia river, Verner Fleming of Shelbyville went to the Haeley home and told the members of the family that the body could be found at a certain point, and search being made there the remains were recovered.

GUESTS CAUGHT BY HIGH WATER

Two Steers Fell Into Grain Dump—
Not Discovered for Four Days.

Harmon, Feb. 18.—A. B. Clatworthy was in Sterling on last Thursday.

Friday afternoon the directors of the Green River Telephone company held a meeting in the bank to transact business.

Archie Brown loaded his goods in a car at Walton Wednesday. He expects to farm near Pontiac the coming year.

There were no services in the M. E. church last Sunday owing to the illness of the pastor.

The mail carriers encountered high water on the roads last Wednesday and made their rounds with difficulty.

Miss Clara McCune, who was battling with the gripe germ, got the better of the disease so as to be able to attend to her scholars in this place this week.

Owing to the serious illness of her father, Dennis Haley, Mrs. Tosney has been unable to attend to her duties in the school room. She has secured Abram Ackert to teach in her place.

Tuesday evening the many friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johnson, it being the tenth anniversary of their marriage. They were showered with many useful articles of tinware. The evening was spent in games and cards. In the wee hours of the morning when they were to start home, they were unable to get their horses as they found the barn yard under a foot of water. But the genial host having a pair of rubber boots that leak, soon got the teams, while the guests remained on higher ground.

As our tax collector, Will Smith was returning home Thursday evening, at a dark place two men stepped out with the command of hands up. But owing to the nimbleness of Will he escaped. Mr. Smith states that he recognized his assailants and if he had a gun he would have thrown a scare into them. To turn holdup man for a joke is a dangerous as well as a foolish kind of sport. The prominent business man who was recognized would not like to have on his tombstone, "Shot as a footpad."

Jake Rhodenbaugh missed two of his steers last Monday and could not find them until Friday when they were discovered in the grain dump of the Neola elevator, where they had fallen when trying to see what an ear of corn looked like.

The youngest was able to walk away after its four days' confinement but the other Jake took home on a bay rack. Owing to the rainy weather there was no grain coming to market or they would have been discovered sooner.

Wednesday at 10:30 a. m. Miss Margarite Larkin and John Blackburn were united in bonds of matrimony. Father Smith read the ceremony. Both young people are well and favorably known. By the first of March they expect to move onto the Andrew Kerwin farm, which the groom has rented.

FREE IF IT FAILS

Your Money Back If You Are Not Satisfied With the Medicine
We Recommend.

We are so positive that our remedy will permanently relieve constipation, no matter how chronic it may be, that we offer to furnish the medicine at our expense should it fail to produce satisfactory results.

It is worse than useless to attempt to cure constipation with cathartic drugs. Laxatives or cathartics do much harm. They cause a reaction, irritate and weaken the bowels and tend to make constipation more chronic. Besides their use becomes a habit that is dangerous.

Constipation is caused by a weakness of the nerves and muscles of the large intestine or descending colon. To expect permanent relief you must therefore tone up and strengthen these organs and restore them to healthier activity.

We want you to try Rexall Orderlies on our recommendation. They are exceedingly pleasant to take, being eaten like candy and are ideal for children, delicate persons and old folks, as well as for the robust. They act directly on the nerves and muscles of the bowels. They apparently have a neutral action on other associate organs or glands. They do not purge, cause excessive looseness nor create any inconvenience whatever. They may be taken at any time, day or night. They will positively relieve chronic or habitual constipation, if not a surgical variety, and the myriads of associate or dependent chronic ailments, if taken with regularity for a reasonable length of time. 12 tablets, 10 cents; 36 tablets 25 cents. Sold in Rochester only at our store. C. M. Campbell & Son.

IN COLD STORAGE.

A farmer living west of Amboy believes he can beat the Temperance Hill correspondent last week. He has a flock of last year's chickens which have disdained the hen house this winter and insist on roosting in the tree tops. A few days after the snow storm on the 5th he became aware that he was not being awakened in the early morning hours by the usual crowing near his bedroom window, and that chickens were a little scarce about the place. He began to think that some one made a raid on his flock. Thursday afternoon he happened to think of a chicken coop near the trees, used in summer as a "hen calaboose," and it occurred to him that the chickens might have taken refuge in it during the storm. The coop had been buried all week in a big drift. He set to work with a shovel and in a short time out came 23 chickens, looking pretty sorry but apparently not seriously injured by their four days' imprisonment without food.—Amboy News.

SHE SUFFERED FIVE YEARS

Finally Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Eric, Pa.—"I suffered for five years from female troubles and at last was almost helpless. I went to three doctors and they did me no good, so my sister advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and when I had taken only two bottles I could see a big change, so I took six bottles and I am now strong and well again. I don't know how to express my thanks for the good it has done me and I hope all suffering women will give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It was worth its weight in gold."—Mrs. J. P. ENDLICH, R. F. D. No. 7, Erie, Pa.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., from women who have been cured from almost every form of female complaints, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration. Every suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. If you want special advice write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for it is free and always helpful.

DON'T "WORRY CLUB"

If your business competitor is advertising BETTER than you are—

If your frank personal judgment tells you that you are not setting the pace, but following it—

If you are sure that the "other fellows" are advertising more than they ought to "afford"—

Your remedy is this: Resign from the
"Don't-Worry-Club" put on your fighting clothes take up the matter of an advertising campaign as though nothing else in the world mattered much in comparison—and you'll accomplish whatever you want to.

Run To Earth.

A peculiar instance of connubial affection occurred some time ago in Vermont, according to the Boston Globe. An aged couple who through half a century of married life had wrangled with each other, were in all probability soon to be separated. The husband was taken sick, and was believed to be near his end. The old wife came to his bedside, and, after carefully examining and taking stock of his condition, exclaimed: "Why, daddy, your feet are cold, your hands are cold, and your nose is cold." "What let 'em be cold?" "Why daddy, you're going to die." "What I guess I know what I'm 'bout." "Daddy, what's to becom of me if you die?" "Dunno, and I don't care. What I want to know is, what's to become of me?"

Woman's Logic.

"My opponent's argument," said Senator Dolliver in a recent campaign, "has about as much logic—Did you ever hear about the young woman in Fort Dodge? One spring morning she sat on the piazza of her pretty little home sewing a button on her husband's coat. The husband himself appeared and she said fretfully, 'It's a perfect shame the careless way the tailor sewed this button on. This is the fifth time I've had to sew it on again for you.'"

The Wisdom of a Child.

The teacher was given a geography lesson, and the class, having traveled from London to Labrador, and from Thessaly to Timbuctoo, was thoroughly worn out. "And now," said the teacher, "we come to Germany, the important country governed by the kaiser. Tommy Jones, what is a kaiser?" "Please m," yawned Tommy Jones, "a stream of hot water springing in 'up an' disturbin' the earth."

The Trials of Age.

First Neighbor (a few centuries ago)—I hear the Methuselahs have moved into a larger house.

Second Neighbor—They had to do it; the old man told me he either had to do that or have an auction sale of his birthday presents.

Clergyman (examining a Sunday school class)—Now, can any of you tell me what are sins of omission? Small Scholar—Please, sir, they're sins you ought to have committed, and haven't.

"Ah, what's this?" exclaimed the intelligent compositor: "Sermons in stones, books in the running brooks? That can't be right. I have it! He means 'Sermons in books, stones in the running brooks.' That's sense."—And that is how the writer found it.

Mrs. Prentice: "How do you always manage to have such delicious beef?"

Mrs. Bywell: "I select a good, honest butcher, and then stand by him."

Mrs. Prentice: "You mean that you give him all your trade?"

Mrs. Bywell: "No, I mean that I stand by him while he is cutting the meat."

As a countryman was sowing his field, two London bucks happened to be riding by. One of them, thinking to make fun of the old put (as they styled him), called out to him.

"Well, honest countryman, it is you that sow, but it's we that reap the fruit."

"Mayhap it may be so, master," bawled the countryman; "I am sowing hemp!"

In the weekly calendar published by a colored church in North Carolina appears a recommendation of the periodical literature of the denomination, from which we quote the following: "The Mayflower is a grand little nugget in a nutshell, and sweeps the field as it goes." The meaning is plain, but the exact concatenation seems Hibernian.

The story is told of John Wesley that sitting at a table spread with every luxury, he was joggled by his neighbor with the jocose remark: "Ah, Brother Wesley, not much self-denial here." "No," was the calm reply, "but a fine field for its exercise."

Teacher—If you wear one pair of shoes three months, how long will two pairs last?

Jimmie—A year.

Teacher—Oh, no; how do you get that?

Jimmie—I don't wear any in the summer.—Judge.

Vicar's Wife—No, the vicar is out in just now. Is there any message you would like me to give him when he returns?

Old Woman (cheerfully)—Please, mum, Martha Higgins would like to be buried at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Young Lady—(on first visit to Western ranch)—For what purpose do you use that coil of line on your saddle?

Cowpuncher—"That line, as you call it, lady, we use for catching cattle and horses."

Young Lady—"I dare say. Now, may I ask what do you use for bait?"

"Have good weather on your camping trip?"

"You bet! There were enough sunny days to dry out all the bedclothes before the next rain came."

SO THERE!

Miriam's mother, after sitting for an hour and a half on the topmost step in the hallway, breathed a sigh of relief as the vestibule door shut with a reluctant click.

"Miriam," she called, as the pride of the neighborhood tripped lightly up the stairs, "isn't that young Schmidt coming to our house pretty often nowadays?"

"I s'pose he is, mamma."

"Do you know anything about him?" What is he worth, for instance?"

"Well, he's worth any dozen of the ordinary young men of my acquaintance."

"Yes, my dear; but—"

"And he's worth one hundred dollars a week to the firm that he works for, even if he does get only fifteen dollars now."

A Drummer's Trick.

A youthful bride and bridegroom, fresh from the prairies, were taking a trans-continental trip on their honeymoon. The car was filled with "drummers" as the Yankee "knights of the carpet bag" are called, and many and various were the allusions to "Love's Young Dream," and "The Honeysuckle and the Bee," which however, did not disconcert the happy pair one iota.

It was late at night. The newly married pair were the last to seek repose. They had just entered their well-appointed Pullman when the lady found that she had forgotten her traveling bag. The sleeping apartments were not numbered, and, being fearful that she might become confused—the berths being so similar—she said, in a loud whisper, "Johnnie, dear, just put your big toe out through the curtain when I come back." That was enough. When she returned there were fourteen pairs of big toes from as many feet, and no one of them was labeled "Johnnie."

Pa—Edith, how often do you practice on the piano when I'm away?

Edith—Every day pa.

Pa—How long did you practice yesterday?

Edith—Four hours.

Pa—And today?

Edith—About the same.

Pa—Well, I'm glad to hear you're so regular. The next time you practice, however, be sure to unlock the piano. I locked it last week, and I've been carrying the key in my pocket ever since. Here it is!

When Lord Thurlow first opened a lawyer's office in London, he took a basement room which had previously been occupied by a cobbler. He was somewhat annoyed by the previous occupant's callers and irritated by the fat that he had few of his own. One day an Irishman entered.

"The cobbler's gone, I see," he said. "I should think he had," tartly responded the lawyer.

"And what do ye sell?" inquired the Irishman, looking at the solitary table and a few books.

"Blockheads," responded Thurlow.

"Begorra," said Pat, "ye must be doing a mighty fine business; ye ain't got but one left."

Henry Blossom, the author of Checkers, had a woolly dog he was showing to some friends in front of the Lambs Club in New York.

Outcault, the cartoonist, came along. Blossom exhibited his dog.

"You want to be careful about that dog, Henry," warned Outcault seriously. "I had one and had a lot of trouble with him. You must be careful about washing him. If you are not his eyes will get sore and he will die."

"Gee!" said Blossom, much impressed. "I'll have to have him dry-cleaned."—The Saturday Evening Post.

Rivers (editorial writer on the Thunderbolt)—Here's a circular letter I've just received from a physical instructor who wants me to give his system a trial. He says I'm not doing half the work I am capable of doing.

Brooks (who writes on space)—Well, it's a good deal better for you to receive a hint of that kind from an outsider than to have to take it from the managing editor.

Elder Brother (who has to do the work for the family)—"Ed, did I hear you say the other day that you knew how to milk a cow?"

Younger Brother—"Yes."

Elder Brother (benignly)—"Well, if you will black by shoes for me, I will let you milk the cow tonight." The arrangement was made and performed.

Watts—Tebson must be awfully afraid of his wife. He is always telling us how she will give him fits if he doesn't hurry home.

Potts—That's the best sign in the world that he is not afraid of her at all. The man who is bossed by his wife never says a word about it.

Mr. Newlywed—The moths have eaten every single thing in the closet, Ida.

Mrs. Newlywed—I don't know how they could get in. I've kept the door locked all summer long.

A certain English mayor, whose period of office had come to an end, was surveying the work of the year. "I have endeavored," he said with an air of conscious rectitude, "to administer justice without swerving to partiality, on the one hand, or impartiality, on the other."

SILAGE FOR STEERS.

An Iowa correspondent writes:

"What, in connection with silage, would you recommend to fatten a load of cattle? The steers will weigh about 1050 and are in fair flesh. I have timothy hay, but no clover this year and there is none in the neighborhood that I can buy. I noticed a molasses feed quite highly recommended for cattle. I have no prices on any feeding stuff, but I thought I would ask your advice as to what would be good. How do you get silage out of a silo, with a fork or a scoop?" I haven't opened the silo yet."

Except under unusual circumstances timothy hay is too expensive. A feed and gives too poor results to feed to fattening cattle. We would not feed much timothy, even though it were impossible to get clover or alfalfa. If corn stover or oat straw can be obtained, some of it might be fed, but the foundation of our correspondent's ration should be corn and all the corn that the cattle will eat. Of course such a ration is badly balanced, containing a great excess of heat and fat forming materials and not enough protein to put on the maximum gains. With the exception of home grown clover or alfalfa hay cottonseed meal is the cheapest source of protein we have. We would advise our correspondent to buy cottonseed meal to feed in connection with his corn silage and corn. The cottonseed meal should be fed in gradually increasing amounts until the cattle are consuming daily from two to three pounds. The Indiana station found that by means of such a ration as we have described a hundred pounds of gain might be put on for $9.39 in the winter of 1908-09 and $9.42 in the winter of 1909-10, which gains were practically as cheap as those secured with corn, cottonseed meal, corn silage and clover hay.

Taking ensilage from the silo is a very simple matter, the principal precaution to be observed being to see that it is taken off evenly over the entire surface in amounts sufficient to lower the silage an inch and a half to two inches daily. A special tined silage fork is probably the most convenient implement to use. A wheeled cart may be placed at the foot of the silo, the silage dumped into this, and then run into the barn.

THE AMERICAN MAGAZINE

One of the great achievements of
 The American Magazine is its contribution to national journalism through its important and authoritative fact-articles, now running, by Ida M. Tarbell, Ray Stannard Baker,
 A. J. Nock and other writers, all of whom are the ablest experts in the country in their special fields.

Another remarkable characteristic of The American Magazine is the quality of its fiction, plus the story quality that is to be found in many of its articles. By this is meant the fact that this particular periodical requires that many of its most important articles be told in story form. In this manner the pages of the whole magazine fairly teem with downright human interest. The facts are gathered and presented with most scrupulous attention to truth, but in the presentation the art of story-telling is summoned, and the result is the finest quality of journalism that exists—that which both informs exactly and entertains wonderfully. Not many journalists of this rare double ability are strolling up and down the world, yet several of them are in the exclusive employ of The American Magazine.

Three great original departments have been created by The American Magazine—"Interesting People,"
 "The Interpreter's House" and
 "The Pilgrim's Scrip." Any particular number of the magazine may contain a wonderful fiction story, or a beautiful picture, or a great article that will interest you more than these departments. And yet those famous departments form a great attraction in the periodical. They are always there—filled to the brim
 with ideas, emotions, and aspirations.
 There is a curious flavor in them—
 singularly new, pleasing and genuine.

On the whole the American Magazine is winning great favor because of its sound tone of real optimism—
 not silly, flat and fake optimism;
 but that optimism which is founded on the solid truth that you ought to do your job well wherever you are,
 and that if you do your job well you will get some sort of a reward for it here on earth—not necessarily money (which most of us foolishly use as the only yardstick of success,) but perhaps an inner feeling of satisfaction which, if your skin is not too tough, may be transferred to a exhibited in a gentle face—something decent to look at and not calculated to scare all the affection out of those who come into daily contact with you.

This is a poor and inadequate statement which only partially covers the ground. It is only meant to be a sort of reflection on what seems to be the moving spirit back of The American Magazine. It is nothing but an impression which the writer feels after reading and enjoying The American Magazine for a year or more.

Wedding Invitations Issued

Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Florence I. Crawford and Clyde C. Cortright, to take place at the home of the bride, 609
 North Ottawa avenue, Wednesday,
 Feb. 22, at 8 o'clock in the evening.

Woman's Club.

The Dixon Woman's club held a delightful meeting on Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Ellen Walgren at her home on Galena avenue. Mrs.
 Straw gave a most interesting paper with her subject, "Footsteps of the Pilgrims." The paper by Mrs. Ballou was postponed on account of absence. Mrs. Kaylor read about "Ill-nois and Its Population," and Mrs.
 Burdick rendered a charming vocal solo. Some club business was transacted and a delightful afternoon enjoyed by all.

Musical at Mrs. Reynolds'.

Society people of Dixon were given a rare treat on Saturday afternoon at a musicale given by Mrs.
 Horace Guilford Reynolds at her handsome home on North Galena avenue.

All present pronounced the affair
 a great success, which it undoubtedly was from every standpoint, as Mrs.
 Reynolds is a charming hostess, and her talented daughters, Misses Paul-line and Lucile, rendered a program of music exceptionally pleasing and artistic, which made the afternoon one long to be remembered by their friends, and by themselves on account of the full appreciation and attention of their guests.

It was certainly one of the most delightful entertainments given in Dixon for a long time past. And it may fittingly be mentioned here that Dixon possesses a very large circle of talented people, keenly appreciative of good things in the music world.

The Misses Reynolds have established themselves in the musical world through their artistic work and have had many engagements in select society circles of Chicago, including appearances at the Studebaker theatre and Orchestra hall where they made their debut last May.

The Misses Reynolds give the credit of their success in no small measure to Madame Johanna Hess-Burr, their instructor, who came out last Saturday from Chicago especially to play their accompaniments. Aside from her reputation as an accompanist—for she has accompanied many great artists—she has a reputation as a teacher which is probably second to none in this country. Among her noted pupils are Jane Osborn-Hanna, of the Metropolitan, others
 in Europe now in opera, and Mrs.
 John Sidney Burnett of Chicago.

Much regret was expressed that Mrs. Herbert W. Martin was unable to attend or sing on this occasion, owing to her illness.

The Misses Reynolds left Sunday morning for Chicago to fill three engagements, one Sunday afternoon at Evanston, Monday afternoon also at Evanston, and Tuesday afternoon
 they will give the entire program with Mrs. Burr at the home of Mrs.
 Luther W. Bodman on North State street for three hundred guests.

The program was as follows:

To Attend Wedding.

Major Tourtellott, his daughters,
 Mary and Minnie, and son Frank,
 will leave tomorrow for Beloit to attend the wedding of his son, Alfred,
 to Miss Risetter of Willow Creek township, this county. The wedding will occur Wednesday at high noon.
 Major Tourtellott will return Wednesday in time to be on hand at Springfield Thursday morning.

For Mr. Nolan.

A surprise party was held on Joseph Nolan of West Second street on Saturday night. Mr. Nolan has been superintendent of the Roper Furniture company and has recently resigned his position to accept one in Detroit. The evening was enjoyable to all. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Nolan and Mrs. E. Bickel. Mr.
 Nolan's friends wish him the best of success in Detroit.

New England Supper.

The New England supper to be given by the Missionary society of St. Paul's Lutheran church tomorrow evening from 5 to 7 o'clock, gives promise of being a most enjoyable affair and the very place to spend an hour, in the midst of the hospitable people of the colonial times.

Surprised Friday.

On Friday evening Fred Humphrey, employed in the meat market of the Countryman store was happily surprised by the men clerks of the store who were assembled at his home when he returned from work.
 He was completely surprised and a jolly evening was spent. A bountiful three course dinner was served by Mrs. Humphrey and greatly enjoyed. Before the guests departed Elmer Countryman on behalf of the guests and Mrs. Humphrey presented the host of the evening with a handsome gold watch and fob, which gift of esteem and love will long be treasured by him. At a late hour the happy party dispersed.

Married Today.

J. Hefele Jr. and Miss Ida M.
 Frost of Argyle, Wis., were united in marriage this afternoon at 2 o'clock by Rev. Fred Stone of the Methodist church, the ceremony being performed in the parsonage. The couple was unattended and left for their home

 this afternoon.

Not a Tender Plant.

A temperance lecturer once displayed to his audience two geraniums.
 The first, watered in the usual way,
 was a beautiful and vigorous plant,
 but the other had been dosed with alcohol, and its foliage was shriveled and sparse and its vitality decayed.

"Now, ladies and gentlemen," cried the lecturer, "what can you say to a demonstration such as this?"

"It's all right, and if I were a ger-anium," said a shabby man in the gallery, "I'd stick to water exclusively,
 but I am not a geranium."—Detroit

Her Sense of Humor.

"Has your wife a perception of humor?"
 "I think so," replied Mr. Meekton.

 I start to tell a joke shows that she recognizes it at once."—Washington

WHY SHE COULDN'T LISTEN.

The book agent crossed the road,
 pushed the button at the front door of the brown house and wiped his feet on the mat, which was inscribed with the word "Welcome." He reached under his coat and unbuttoned the pocket which held his prospectus of
 "The Devil of Today."

The door opened and a thin woman looked at him with sharp eyes.
 Her hair was red and she wore white side combs.

"Good morning," said the book-agent, as he removed his hat. "Perhaps—"

"Yes, and perhaps not, too. You're around collecting for the wringer, aren't you? Well you won't get no more off of me. I haven't got a minute's time to waste with you."

"No, sir," she repeated. "You don't get no more off of me. The egg beating attachment onto it don't work at all and the prize portrait
 you gave me with it don't look no more like Claude than I do. Do you know I never see a wringer but I think of our dear old cat?"

"One night she went to sleep in the basket of clothes and the next morning we squeezed her through the wringer done up in a tablecloth.
 She was too sweet for anything. We buried her in the back yard right near the turnip bed. My husband just loves turnips."

"He likes 'em fixed up with tomato sauce like his Aunt Ann used to do 'em. You know his Aunt Ann is an awfully nice lady. The only peculiarity about her was she wouldn't ride backward in a trolley car. She said it made her feel like she was wading in the surf at Coney Island. I think Coney Island is just the loveliest place."

"Of course, I don't believe I'd like to be there in the winter time, but in the summer I think it's just fine.
 I like that place where you sit down and slide around a shoot and out at the bottom. They call it the dew drop. Of course ordinary dew I can't stand. I can't go out much after night fall on account of my ankles. My aunty was the same way."

"Whenever I speak of aunty I can't help thinking of the pies she used to make. I can almost taste
 'em now. She was so artistic, too.
 Aunty stamped crescents and lovely pretty things on the pie crust—and makes it so much more appetizing, you know. She done it with her false teeth. Aunty's dead now; she had indigestion."

"Do you know that vest you've got on looks just like Claude's? Why, I didn't say any such thing! I only said it looked like it. Can't more than one vest look alike?"

"I'm washin' and I'll have to go,
 'cause I smell the suds runnin' over.
 I won't pay no more on that wringer,
 but I'm always glad to listen to what folks has to say."—Chicago Record-Herald.

 DRUGGISTS. THE "REXALL" STOREDEERE CORN PLANTERS
THE MOST ACCURATE DROP

THIS is the "show-me" Planter. It appeals to the man who wants to be shown, because its many desirable points will bear the closest examination.
 Its good qualities are of a nature and number that speak for themselves. It is the boiled down essence of good corn planter construction. These statements might seem strong, but after you have investigated the planter itself, and talked with your neighbor who has used one, you will agree that what we have said is merely a statement of plain fact. When we say this planter is accurate in drop, we mean real accuracy. When we say that it is light, strong and durable we mean it, because steel and malleable iron enter largely into its construction.

 There never was a planter put on the market that has met with the instant and lasting popularity of the Deere No. 9. There are more of these planters sold every year than any three other makes combined, and we sell more every year. Stop in and ask us for our new 36-page booklet, "More Corn—and Better." Check full of seed corn information; also describes the No. 9 completely.

CHLOROFORM FUMES KILL YOUNG GIRL

TREATS TOOTH WITH THE DRUG
AND THEN COVERS UP
HER HEAD.

Inhalation of chloroform fumes, from a piece of saturated cotton in a decayed tooth resulted in the death of Miss Mary Agnes Quirk, 18 years old, of Peoria. The girl retired at 10 o'clock at night after placing a quantity of cotton soaked with the drug in her aching tooth. At 8 o'clock the following morning her mother found her dead in bed.

Death Accidental.

According to Dr. R. C. Bradley, who was called, there is little likelihood that any suicide plan was carried out, for the details were apparent and did not point to deliberate death. Over the girl's head at the time she expired the covers were closely drawn, held in place by the victim's arm. The fumes of the chloroform undoubtedly caused her death.

Miss Quirk suffered much from an aching tooth during the day, though she attended her classes at school. Late in the afternoon, according to her mother, she went to a drug store and purchased a small bottle of chloroform to treat the tooth. She had often used the drug for this purpose and nothing was thought of it. She studied during the evening and at 10 o'clock retired. The last thing she did before going to bed was to saturate a new pinch of cotton and put it in the tooth. She also rubbed her gums with the liquid. To keep the side of her face warm where the aching tooth was located she covered up her head tightly with the covering.

It is believed by the grief stricken relatives that the girl went to sleep undisturbed and became affected with the deadly fumes, passed away before she awakened.

The girl was of a sunny disposition and was very popular in high school circles.

Miss Quirk spent some time in Dixon last summer as a guest at the Cupp and Brookner homes and met many Dixon young people while attending the Assembly.

HIGH SCORES ON

OPERA HOUSE ALLEYS

The following scores were made at the opera house bowling alley last week:

W. Heckman, 211, 201.
L. Raffenberg, 202
Charles Emmitt, 200.
S. Ankeny, 240, 210.
R. Anderson, 217, 203.
Clint. Emmitt, 223
C. Bates, 225.
O. Peters, 201.
Gylleck, 221, 202, 215, 204 210, 234.
R. Trout, 232, 234, 220, 235.

ROCK ISLAND, 43; DIXON, 18.

The Dixon College basketball team was defeated by the team of Augustana college, Rock Island, Saturday night at Rock Island by a score of 43 to 18. The game marked Augustana's seventh straight victory.

Dixon college has a good basketball team, but to go down in defeat against the Augustana team is no disgrace. The team from that college is one of the crack teams of the entire state and to hold them down to a score of 43 to 18 is not so bad after all.

GOES TO CALIFORNIA.

Cashier R. M. Moore of the Union State bank left for California Saturday on a business and pleasure trip. He will be gone about two months, and expects to return in April.

Dramatic Notes

DIXON OPERA HOUSE TONIGHT

The dramatic intensity of the third act of "The House of a Thousand Candles," is almost without parallel in modern plays. Its tempestuous scenes occurring in the wild est of hurricanes sweep all before it and culminate with a climax which simply means curtain call after curtain call. The House of a Thousand Candles will be given at the opera house this evening and is a drama that unfolds a story of rare stage characters in equally rare surroundings. There is a stamp of novelty on each scene and incident. Its weirdness simply compels attention while its mystery lightened by laughter is of that kind which has served to carry the production to the topmost wave of success. Its presentation will be marked with every care to detail as each of the four acts will be mounted entire. The company including George D. Winn, and Rosabelle Leslie, is said to be fully capable of handling the exacting scenes in a satisfactory manner.

The company arrived from Rock Island today, and there is every indication that they will be greeted by a large audience tonight.

FRA DIAVOLO.

It is with great pride and confidence in public approval that I present the "Beggars Prince Standard Opera Company" for Friday night, Feb. 24th, with its all star cast of world noted singers. The company is composed of Miss Emma Abbott, the niece of the famous Emma Abbott, who has left the concert stage to take up opera with this organization. G. Byron Bront, baritone, whose record dates back to the original Gilbert-Sullivan opera productions in London, England, in the role of Fra Diavolo (the Devil). Edmund F. McCrumish, tenor, late of the Boston Ideals and the Andrews Opera company; Adelaide Bront, contralto, as Lady Alcah; Harry Lewis, baritone, as Lord Alcah; Robert Mumford, as Father Matteo; Steven Lewis, as Beppo; Edward M. Hopper as Giacomo and Miss Cecile Armon as Roberta.

The company gives the finest performance of Auber's great opera ever attempted, under the able directorship of F. Glover. The music of Auber is known to the entire musical world. To this is added the "Sextette from Lucia," the refined comedy of Lord and Lady Alcah, combined with the laughable comedy of "Beppo" and "Giacomo," gives four excellent comedy parts.

The story of Fra Diavolo is dramatic, and anyone posted in opera will tell you that it is by far the greatest opera ever presented for a massive audience. It will please all alike.

(Signed) P. P. STARIN, Manager Opera House.

FAMILY THEATRE

There will be a good bill at the family theatre for the first three nights this week. Casad, Irvin and Casad, novelty comedy instrumentalists, carry their own special scenery, originators of the musical telephones, singing, talking and plenty of comedy, will be star feature.

Madeline Sack, clever little performer on the violin, is another very entertaining feature. She is getting good press notices from all places she has appeared.

Moving pictures will be good.

George Karasek of Aurora, 18 years old, indicted for the brutal murder of his sweetheart, Miss Flora Sabo, 16 years old, will not be tried until the May term of court.

MANY SEEKING LORIMER'S CHAIR

CONGRESSMAN LOWDEN AMONG THOSE PROMINENTLY
MENTIONED.

Should Wm. Lorimer be unseated in the senate of the United States, already there are candidates waiting to get into a contest for Lorimer's place. Among the more prominent named thus far are: Congressman Wm. McKinley of Champaign; Col. Frank O. Lowden of Oregon, who will retire from congress March 4; Wm. J. Calhoun, minister to China; Lawrence Y. Sherman, former lieutenant governor; Orville F. Berry, chairman of the railroad and warehouse commission; Bernard A. Eckhart of Chicago; Edward D. Shurtliff, former speaker of the house, and Richard Yates, former governor.

Wm. E. Mason says he will be a candidate again and favors a statewide primary.

DIXON COLLEGE NOTES.

Tomorrow morning at the College chapel, Prof. Reginald Wesley Martin, assisted by Mrs. Jacobs, will render Longfellow's "King Robert of Sicily," and a cordial invitation is extended to the people of Dixon to be present.

A very important meeting of the parliamentary law class will be held next Friday evening. This meeting will be one of special interest to the students of Dixon college and the general public, as the merits and demerits of the Lorimer case will be discussed and decided. The class continues to increase in numbers and interest and Judge Harris is certainly to be complimented for the splendid work that is being done in this department.

Ellzie Hayden of Lawton, Mich., enrolled Saturday for a complete course in our commercial department. Mr. Hayden comes to us highly recommended and will undoubtedly do splendid work.

Worthy Matthews' readings in chapel Friday morning were very much appreciated by the students and visiting friends, as were also the violin solos given by Miss Burrows of Walnut. She is an accomplished musician and is certainly a credit to Miss Chase, who has been her instructor since she began work on the violin.

F. L. Rizner, representative, who has been enjoying a short vacation, has returned to his post of duty.

Miss Fredia Steinaker, a member of last year's teachers' training class, who is now teaching near Atlanta, this state, spent last week at Dixon college. We are always glad to welcome our students back at college. Miss Steinaker is doing good work and is certainly reflecting credit upon Dixon college.

Mr. and Mrs. Turner of Amboy, paid their daughter, Miss Eva, a visit at the college Friday.

Mrs. James Sharkey of Walnut is visiting her daughter, Miss Rose, for a few days.

This will be a busy week at Dixon college, as this is the last week of the winter term and the examinations are being held.

TO ENJOY OUTING

At Hot Springs
L. W. Mitchell has received a letter from C. W. Joanson of Grand Detour, who with his wife and daughter, Bessie, are visiting at Hot Springs, Ark., stating that the weather there is fine and the flowers are blooming. Mr. Johnson and his family arrived without any mishaps. Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell will join the Johnson family in the south next March.

WILL MOVE SOUTH

T. E. Ainsworth of Franklin Grove was here Saturday evening a guest of C. J. Sweitzer, 803 Eighth street. The gentlemen arranged to take a car jointly to move their families to Council, Idaho, on March 10. Both gentlemen own land there and will make Idaho their future home.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire to thank the friends and neighbors, the members of the Zion school and the schoolmates at the Cook school of our daughter, Goldie L., for their acts of kindness during the illness and at the time of the death and funeral of our daughter.

1* Mr. and Mrs. Eric M. Weed.

Marriage in Scotland.

Boys over fourteen years of age and girls over twelve may marry in Scotland without the consent of parents.

After terrorizing the members of his family and the entire neighborhood with a revolver, Frank Rose of Belvidere fled from his home several days ago and has not been heard of since.

WITH THE FUNNY MAN

A Dakota Story.

I was talking with a Dakotan the other day, "Speaking of farms," he said, "we have some sizable farms out in Dakota. Yes, sir, I've seen a man on one of our big farms start out in the spring and plow a straight furrow till fall. Then he turned around and harvested back."

"Wonderful!" said I.
"On our Dakota farms," he went on, "it's the usual thing to send the young married couples out to milk the cows. Their children bring back the milk."

"Wonderful!" I repeated.
"Once," he said, "I saw a Dakota farmer's family prostrated with grief. The women were weeping, the dogs were barking, the children were wailing and the tears ran down the farmer's cheeks as he hitched up his twenty-mule team and drove off."
"Where was he going?" said I.
"He was going halfway across the farm to feed the pigs."

"Did he ever get back?" I asked.
"It isn't time for him yet," was the reply.

Ask for Tom.

In the course of his long and active public career Speaker Cannon has often been severely attacked. It remained, however, for a waiter in a Kansas City hotel to charge him with illiteracy. The Philadelphia Public Ledger tells the story thus:

Being in no mood to select his dinner, he had tossed aside, after a glance, the menu presented to him by his waiter, saying:

"Bring me a good dinner."
Incidentally "Uncle Joe" slipped the man a big tip in advance.

The repast proving satisfactory, the Speaker pursued the same plan during his stay in Kansas City. As he was leaving the servitor remarked earnestly, as he helped him on with his overcoat:

"I beg your pardon, sir, but when you or any of your friends that can't read come to Kansas City just ask for Tom."

When to Refuse.

At the death of the Duke of Wellington the whole diplomatic corps was invited to the funeral at St. Paul's. The French ambassador, on receiving his invitation, was very much upset. He hurried off to his colleague of Russia, Baron Brunnow, and confided to him the difficulty in which he was placed. "The queen," he said, "expects us to go to St. Paul's to the funeral of the Duke of Wellington. How can I go, considering the injuries which the duke inflicted on my country? What shall I do?" Baron Brunnow listened gravely to his colleague's exposition and then replied: "As the duke is dead," he said, "I think you can safely go to the funeral. If you were asked to attend his resurrection, I should say refuse the invitation."—Cleveland Leader.

Could Expose Them.

Senator Tillman at a recent banquet told an amusing story.
"The pastor of a Tallapoosa church," he began, "said rather pointedly from the pulpit one Sunday morning:

"Ah surely am rejoiced to see Brud-dah Calhoun White in church once mo'. Ah's glad Brud-dah Calhoun has saw de error of ways at lawst, fo' dere is mo' joy otab one einnah dat repenteth dan abah de ninety an' nine."

"But at this point Brother Calhoun White interrupted angrily.
"'Oh,' said he from his seat, 'de ninety an' nine needn't crow. Ah could tell some things about de ninety an' nine of Ah wanted ter!'"

Ways That are Dark.

The man ran his eye over the casual assortment of cigars in the case at the end of the bar. He was a stranger to all of the brands.
"How's that two-for-a-quarter over in the left hand corner?" he asked.
"That's a dandy boss," said the colored gentleman, who was officiating as bartender. "It's the kind I always smoke."

This sounded like a dubious recommendation until he added, "When you want to get the best cigar in the house just ask the bartender which cigar he smokes when the boss is out."—Judge.

Her First Football Game.

During the first year of coeducation at Tufts College several of the co-eds, as guests of some of the college men, were witnessing their first game of football.

"Why are all the players leaving the field?" inquired one girl.
"This is the end of the first half," replied her escort.
"Oh, is that so?" gushed the girl. "How many halves are there?"

Beat Him.

The Stranger (triumphantly)—Four aces, old son!
Shuffling Pete (gloomily)—All right. Take the money. But I'll be shot if that was the hand I dealt you.

A little girl on the train to Pittsburgh was chewing gum. Not only that, but she insisted on pulling it out in long strings and letting it fall back into her mouth again.
"Mabel!" said her mother, in a horrified whisper. "Mabel, don't do that. Chew your gum like a little lady."

NAVAL OFFICER DISAPPEARS

Capt. Matthews, Prison Warden,
Not Seen in Two Weeks.

MAY HAVE BEEN MURDERED

Missing Man Is Thirty-Two Years Old, Had Clean Record and Was in Direct Line for Promotion to Rank of Major.

San Francisco, Feb. 20.—Capt. Arthur J. Matthews, of the United States marine corps, who has been stationed at Mare Island navy yard for two years as warden of the prison for naval convicts, has been missing for two weeks. After vain search by comrades and other officers of the navy yard Rear Admiral Osterhaus of Mare Island, has called on the police of San Francisco to help in a search for the missing officer whose description is given.

There are three theories of his disappearance. One is that he has been murdered by some naval convict who came under his severe discipline and who secured $300 in cash that Capt. Matthews had drawn on a warrant from the naval pay office on the day he dropped out of sight. A second is that he got drunk and was "shanghaied" on the Frisco waterfront after being robbed of his money. The third is that he overstayed his leave and, fearing censure and loss of credits, went south and joined the Mexican revolutionists.

Capt. Matthews was in direct line for promotion to major and as his record was good he was morally certain of higher rank.

The only thing that would have led him to drinking and any vagary that drink might bring, was the recent death of his father, Rear Admiral Matthews, of Concord, Mass., of whom he was passionately fond.

Admiral Osterhaus has reported on Capt. Matthews' disappearance to the navy department and he has appointed a new warden of the yard prison. What indicates that Capt. Matthews' disappearance was voluntary is the fact that he conversed with Maj. R. L. Roosevelt, of the marine corps, in this city two days after his leave had expired. Maj. Roosevelt met Capt. Matthews at the Palace hotel Feb. 6 and the captain's leave had expired Feb. 4. He did not say anything to Roosevelt about having overstayed his leave, but said he was then on his way to board a boat for Mare Island.

Capt. Matthews is 32 years old. Within a short time he would have been promoted to the rank of major and he would have been one of the youngest majors in the marine corps. He was born in New York and was appointed to the corps from Rhode Island in 1899. He served eight years in the tropics and was transferred to Mare Island Nov. 17, 1909.

MAY BUILD LINE OREGON TO SYCAMORE

ELECTRIC LINE WOULD RECEIVE POWER FROM ROCK RIVER

According to various papers from this vicinity there is a possibility that in the comparatively near future DeKalb and Sycamore may derive cheap electric power from the Rock River and the concerns which now furnish power in that vicinity have a most formidable rival.

There is much talk just now of the construction of an interurban road between Oregon and Sycamore. Power for this road is to be generated from the Rock river and transmitted to the various communities along the route. The power plant at Oregon according to the plans will be a most elaborate one and will convey power to municipalities all along the line of the proposed road.

Thus it will be seen that the development of the power resources of the Rock river is of the utmost importance to DeKalb.

A REAL IRISH BULL.

A very learned professor in the University of Dublin who was asked to explain what is an Irish bull, replied:

"Well, it's like this. Supposing there were thirteen cows lying down in a field and one of them was standing up; that would be a bull."

Mr. Scraggington—There would be fewer divorces if more men were like William G. Differdaffer.

Mrs. Scraggington—Why so?
Mr. Scraggington—He is a bachelor.

OSTEOPATHY

TONSILLITIS.

Tonsillitis is the result of cold producing a contraction of the muscles and tissues of the neck, which causes congestion and inflammation in the tonsils. Osteopathic treatment quickly cures this trouble by relaxing the tissues and re-establishing the circulation to the tonsils, often in one or two treatments.

DEMENT TOWN DOINGS

Monday morning and quiet as usual.

Ske, who spent several days in Nelson, returned this morning and reported for work at Siebolt's restaurant.

Frank Hogan went to Rockford this morning to resume his commercial work.

Undertaker Charles Slain was on the avenue this morning on his way to take a passenger train for the east.

Ross Crawford, expressman at the Northwestern depot, is taking a very much needed rest. Mr. Good was on hand last night.

Lester Poffenberger, who was here over Sunday visiting friends and relatives, returned to Peoria this morning.

Saturday was some business day with Flemming. It kept three delivery wagons busy getting the goods away. Flemming has made a big hit with his weekly bargain days.

What is Joe Korn's platform? The people of the avenue say they might see their way clear to support Korn for commissioner if they knew what he stands for. Speak up, Joseph, you may find it well worth while.

Mrs. Leo Moyer and son Roy are here from Sterling for a few days' visit with relatives.

Caught Kissing.

Two young people were discovered kissing each other this morning. The accident happened on the corner of Second street and Peoria avenue. Think of it, almost in the business district. However, there is no ordinance against kissing anywhere in Dixon. So let us kiss. Why should folks fuss about these two lovers kissing? Is it jealousy?

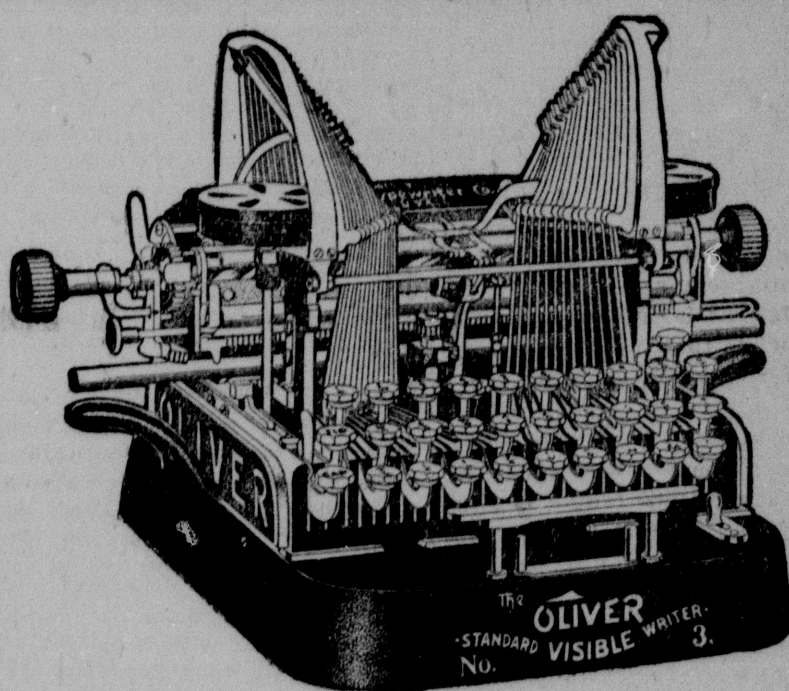

Coming down the avenue a little further we were again told about a kissing bee on College avenue, between Third and Fourth streets. And again, why all this fuss about kissing? Let 'em kiss, for tomorrow the other fellow might beat him to it. There's a good deal to kissing, if you do it right.

John Gets the Ducks.

Does this sudden change in temperature have any effect on the ducks flying? It is said that John Fellows bagged 17 ducks. That's good work for one day. Let us hear from the other fellows.

PRACTICAL GAME PROTECTION.

Of the common game birds there is none that is more valuable to the farmer as a destroyer of insects than the quail or bobwhite. All too often, however, in the northern states, where winter snows are deep and usual sources of food supply are cut off, the pretty little fellows die of exposure or starvation or more likely of both. A most effective method of protecting them during the winter season we read of the other day, and we give it in brief for the benefit of other readers who would like to protect the quail on their premises, but don't know just how to go at it. The farmer referred to had for several years past made a practice of putting out feed for the quail and gradually attracting them to the vicinity of the feed sheds. One of these adjoining the barn was sheltered, opening to the south, and was connected by a good sized passageway to the haymow. The quail were first attracted to this shed and fed regularly every morning. As the colder weather came on they took refuge in the haymow, which became their permanent roosting place. When the owner went to the mow to feed them they would fly to the nearest rafters, and as soon as he retreated would fly down and eat the grain he scattered for them. In previous years he found that when spring came these birds mated in the vicinity of the barn and sought nesting places in nearby brush and weed covers, hatched their broods of little ones and were thus able to carry on the war against the insect pests about the place with increased forces.

WOEFULLY SHORTSIGHTED.

Recently the daily papers contained dispatches to the effect that the dairymen of the state of Illinois are opposed to the passage of a tuberculosis test law because they contend it would reduce the number of cows in the state by one-tenth. Granted that it would, wouldn't this loss be preferable to a loss once or twice as large which is bound to come if the disease is not thoroughly stamped out, and this entirely aside from any consideration of the hundreds of thousands of people who are consumers of the milk from these same dairy cows? In this connection we recall the case of a young farmer in whose herd of dairy cattle of some eighty head there were twenty animals slightly affected by tuberculosis, as indicated by the tuberculin test. He temporized and monkeyed with the matter, as the dairymen referred to seem inclined to do. The result was that some two years later, when he was compelled by law to do as first, he lost sixty-five animals instead of twenty. This was good policy? Not by a jugful, and it won't be for any man who owns beef or dairy animals that are afflicted with tuberculosis.

NATURE'S PROTEST.

As in the case of many other plant pests, the damage wrought by the Hessian fly is likely to be most severe in localities where little or no attention is given to the matter of crop rotation. Loss by both insect and fungus pests seems to be nature's way of protesting against a wrong and wanton system of handling the soil, and all too often the tiller of the soil must sustain a severe loss in the above manner before he is willing to move his ways and adopt a sensible system of crop rotation. Cotton after cotton encourages the boll weevil; corn after corn, the wireworm, corn root worm and corn root louse; wheat after wheat, the blights, smut and Hessian fly; potatoes after potatoes, scab and blight. Virtually all of these pests are reduced to a minimum if crops are grown in rotation, for under such arrangement before the insect or fungous pest gets a good foothold the land is devoted to some other crop which is not affected by it.

BREDFRIENDING THE BIRDS.

There is no other single agency which renders as great a service to the farmer, the fruitman and gardener in their fight against insect pests as do birds. Because of this fact tillers of the soil might well take in hand measures not only to give birds greater protection from their enemies, but where possible to give encouragement along the line of providing shelter and nesting places. The first can be accomplished by leaving a little thicket of plum thorn or other trees by roadside, in fence corner or pasture lot. To encourage the presence of birds like the woodpecker, wren, bluebird and martin, that nest in cavities rather than in trees, much can be done by providing artificial nesting places in the shape of bird houses, boxes, tin cans, old stumps and the like. If these places are provided the birds will be attracted to garden and orchard areas, where their services are most valuable.

The worst part of many a disagreeable job that we look forward to is getting started. From this point on it is often quite easy sailing.

Chemical analysis shows that in an average fifty bushel corn crop there is removed from the land $8.30 worth of fertilizer in the grain, $7 in the leaves and stalks and about 25 cents' worth in the shape of cobs.

The drought of the past season in the middle western states has worked much hardship to stock raisers, many of whom on account of their wells going dry have had to haul water for their stock in below zero weather from neighboring streams or lakes.

The thriftiest and strongest chicks will usually be got from hens that have not been forced in the matter of egg production prior to the laying of the eggs used for hatching purposes. Breeders of pure bred fowls realize this fact and use for breeders hens that have not been laying during the winter season.

Families that had the forethought last summer and fall to provide supplies of canned fruit, sweet corn, kumquat and the like have been getting more than face value out of them during the past few weeks. They have furnished a variety to the ration that has not only been appetizing, but very wholesome.

The best sweetener of sour or acid soils is lime in some form, preferably finely ground raw stone. This can be got at about $1 per ton at shipping point and should be ordered in carlots by several farmers of the same locality who are in need of it. Secured in this way, transportation charges can be reduced a half or more.

Where one is located in the vicinity of a good horse market and his tastes incline in that direction there is good money to be made by purchasing raw, thin and unbroken horses, fattening them, breaking them and finishing them for market. And it is often surprising what a few months of this kind will do for a decidedly unpromising piece of horseflesh.

The other day at Fort Worth, Tex., the market was topped by a car of hogs which were fattened largely on rice, and the fact was one that roused much interest on the part of both hog raisers and buyers. In the rice country along the coast cracked rice and what is known as rice polish, a by-product of rice milling, have long been a drug on the market, and while their food value as a hog ration has not been completely demonstrated, it has been proved that when fed in connection with corn they make an economical fattening ration.

In spite of the efforts of the agricultural department at Washington to arouse interest among farmers in the production and use of denatured alcohol, practically nothing has been attained along the line desired. Dr. Wiley, who has charge of the denatured alcohol experimental work, says that a still costing $2,500 would convert into alcohol the products of a territory six miles square and that the cost of production per gallon would be much cheaper in a plant of this size than in one considerably smaller. In Germany and France the smaller individual stills have been in profitable use for the past 250 years.

The other day in passing through eastern Washington the writer noticed what seemed to be a sort of dust storm on the landscape at some distance, the cause of the disturbance not being in evidence. As the train advanced and a view was had from a different angle a "dry" farmer, harrowing with a six horse outfit, proved to be the kicker up of the big cloud of dust. To the farmer used to pastures and roadsides clad in blue grass and tilled soil held firmly down by surface moisture the dry farming condition referred to would be strange and distasteful perhaps, but to offset the drawbacks of dust and summer drought are ideal ripening and harvesting conditions—no hail, no smut, no rust, no floods.

That propensity is quite as largely an individual matter as of breeding, family and pedigree is nicely shown in some observations which Professor Eckles has made at the Missouri Agricultural college. He found that one of five Jersey bulls in the college herd raised the average annual production of his daughters above their mothers 2,545 pounds of milk and 110 pounds of butter fat, while the daughters of another bull averaged only five pounds more than their mothers. The results in these two instances are striking, and the more so because the bull which made the above exceptional showing was sired by the second, whose daughters showed so little improvement over their dams.

A bright young farmer whom the writer ran across a few days ago wished to get a start in the pure bred horse business. It happened to be Percherons, but might have been any other desirable breed suited to a given purpose. He attended a sale of blooded horses at some distance from his home and picked up one of the broad napes offered. The mare is in foal, and this means that in the spring he will have two blooded horses instead of one, and if the youngster is a filly it will mean two producers, while if the foal is of the male persuasion and possesses individuality and merit the animal will probably be worth even more. This method of getting a start is an excellent one not only in the case of horses, but also for cattle, sheep and hogs.

OPPOSE RECIPROCITY

Canadians in Manifesto Against Proposed Trade Pact.

Most Influential and Wealthy Supporters of Laurier Urge Countrymen to Speak Against Measure.

Toronto, Ont., Feb. 20.—Opposition to the proposed reciprocity agreement between Canada and the United States brought out eighteen of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's most influential and wealthiest supporters in a manifesto urging Canadians generally to speak out against the proposed trade pact regardless of party allegiance.

The group includes John C. Eaton, merchant; Sir Edmund Walker, head of the Canadian Bank of Commerce; E. R. Wood, financier; Hugh Blair, director of the Globe, the Liberal party organ; R. S. Goulet, president of the board of trade, and Sir Mortimer Clark, former lieutenant governor.

Among the reasons they give for opposing the agreement are these: It would arrest the development of Canadian national resources by Canadians; it would arrest the growth of natural sentiment; it would tend to break the present close relations between Canada and the British empire and would divert to north and south the channels of trade which during the last forty years have been developed east and west. It is also urged that a change in the channels of trade would ultimately lead to an annexation with the United States and that then in any case it would lead to the political union of the two countries.

EARTHQUAKE IN ITALY

Worshippers at Mass Rush from Churches and are Thrown Down.

Rome, Feb. 20.—An earthquake, which, from its volume, led to the belief here that it must have been tremendously destructive, shook central Italy, especially the provinces in the Compartments of Emilia, the Marches and Tuscany. The damage, however, was not great.

Several buildings were damaged at Forlì and Casena. One occupied house collapsed and many chimneys fell. A child's shoulder and a man's arm were broken. A wild panic seized the people. Many were attending early mass. They rushed out of the churches and were thrown down and crushed or bruised. The shock was less violent though considerable elsewhere.

STUDENTS HAVE MUMPS

Cornell University Authorities Looking for Accommodations for Sick.

Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 20.—Because of the large number of cases of mumps among Cornell students the university authorities are looking for additional accommodations for the sick and are advertising for houses which can be rigged up as temporary contagious wards. Only last fall a new contagious ward was opened.

There are over thirty cases of mumps now in the infirmary and its accommodations are taxed to capacity. Physicians say the number of cases of mumps in this city this winter is extraordinary.

INDICTMENTS RETURNED

Former Springfield Official is Charged With Forgery.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 20.—Three indictments were returned in the city hall graft probe against Hal F. Deick, formerly assistant city controller, formerly an charging forgery. The first bill charges him with forging the name of Henry Ambuhl to a voucher for $21.80 on July 28, 1909; the second charges him with forging the name of Frank Judd to a voucher for $31.95 on the same day, and the third charges him with forging the name of Henry W. Ambuhl to a voucher for $48.60 on Dec. 10, 1908.

PLAYERS LEAVE BOSTON

Red Sox Draw Newspaper Correspondents With Them.

New York, Feb. 20.—Fifteen members of the Boston Red Sox left here for Chicago, where they will join another big squad under Manager Donovan preparatory to boarding John I. Taylor's special train for Redondo Beach, Cal.

This much talked off trip has worked up so much interest in Boston that several newspaper correspondents went with the players.

PAYS RAILROAD BONDS

Wipes Out Old Indebtedness of $10,000 at a Cost of $300,000.

Dixon, Ill., Feb. 20.—After thirty-nine years of litigation, citizens of Amboy are rejoicing over the payment of the last of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad bonds.

The tax was voted on April 5, 1872, and consisted of 200 bonds of $500 each, due in ten years at 10 per cent interest. The taxpayers believed Amboy would be a terminal of a division of the company, where shops and a roundhouse would be built, but this did not prove to be the case. When the first installment became due the taxpayers rebelled, but were beaten eventually in the courts. The total cost of the original $10,000 indebtedness was $300,000.

DRIVE WORKMEN FROM TOWN

Armed Posse Chases Italians from Galva, Ill.

Galva, Ill., Feb. 20.—An armed posse has driven the Italian workmen employed at the Haynes factory from the city and great excitement prevails as a result of an attack by Italians on Will Gibbs, Ed Anderson, and James Hickson, who were seriously injured.

Trouble between the Americans and the Italians started at the plant and has been brewing for some time.

DEALSKNOCKOUT BLOW

Attorney General Destroys Fee Offices' Hope.

Stead Reiterates Ruling That Expenditure of Money for Expenses is Illegal.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 20.—Attorney General Stead dealt a knockout blow to all state boards, commissions, and state agencies of all kinds which have been hoping against hope that the "game warden" decision of last week applied only to Game Commissioner Wheeler's department.

Mr. Stead reiterated a general finding and recommendation made in his annual report to the definite effect that the heads of departments which have been collecting fees and expending them at their own will or whim have been acting against the constitution.

The attorney general says that in his judgment, by the prevailing system, through which several gubernatorial political machines have seen their rise and fall, there is absolutely no method of determining how much money is properly collected for public purposes or is there any way of ascertaining how moneys so collected are expended.

The proposition now is that a bill drawn briefly will be introduced in the legislature during the week providing that all public money, regardless of the sources of their receipt and the agencies by which these moneys are collected shall be turned into the state treasury and their property accounted for and that they shall not be withdrawn without specific appropriation bills enacted by the general assembly.

"In this way and in this way alone," said Mr. Stead, "can the taxpayer and the citizen be informed of the exact financial condition of the state. In my opinion, any other method of transacting the business of these department boards and commissions violates both the letter and the spirit of our constitution."

SUICIDE IN SKYSCRAPER

Chicago Man Jumps from Eleventh Floor of an Interior Courtway.

Chicago, Feb. 20.—W. T. J. Plummer, a real estate man, committed suicide by jumping from the eleventh floor of the Chamber of Commerce building to the floor of the interior courtway.

His body hurtled down through the central shaft and struck the pavement of the main corridor among the throng of business men. No one was hit, however. The man was dead when picked up.

YOUTHS GET LIFE TERMS

Two Young Chicago Desperadoes Are Sentenced by Court.

Chicago, Feb. 20.—Raymond Cannon and Earl Bird, alias Joseph McDonald, youthful birds whose orgy of crime made a sensation last November, were found guilty of the murder of John Ostrowsky, whom they shot and robbed at Evergreen and North Spaulding avenues.

They were sentenced to penitentiary for life by Judge Kavanagh.

BLOW FOUR SAFES

Thieves Escape After Robbing Business Houses.

Bridgeport, Ill., Feb. 20.—The safes in four business houses here were blown, and the robbers escaped with about $2,000.

Nitroglycerin was used in each case. Bloodhounds are on the trail.

Killed by Boiler Explosion.

Marquette, Mich., Feb. 20.—A boiler at the Fibron stone quarry at Fibron, Mackinac county, exploded, killing one man and injuring seven. The victims are all of Finnish nationality.

No Slang for Him.

Donald had been to Sunday school and on coming home was asked what he had learned. The lesson was the story of Joseph, and the small learner was evidently very full of his subject.

"Oh," he said, "it was about a boy, and his brothers took him and put him in a hole in the ground; and then killed another boy, and took the first boy's coat and dipped it in the blood of this boy and—"

"Oh, no, Donald, not another boy!" his sister interrupted, horrified. But Donald stood his ground. "It was, too," he insisted. Then he added, "The teacher said 'kid' but I don't use words like that."

Cobweb Gatherers.

Getting a living ought not to be very much of a problem to a man who is willing to be a little unorthodox. There is a fellow down in Greenwich Village who collects cobwebs for a living.

"But what on earth for?" he was asked.

"I sell 'em to the big hotel guys."

"What do they want with them?" "De rich blokes won't buy old wines unless they get de cobwebs on 'em."

Not to Be Doubted.

"What's that you call your mule?" "I call him Corporation," answered the old colored man.

"How did you come to give him such a name?"

"Fum studyin' de animal an' readin' de papers. Dat mule gits me blame an' abuse dan anything else in de township an' goes ahead havin' his own way jes' de same."

Appropriate.

Mrs. Newpop—What's the baby crying for, I wonder?

Mr. Newpop—Give him a couple of cuffs.

Things He Doesn't Say.

Laura—Why do you think Charles is fond of you? Has he said anything?

Grace—Oh, no, dear! But you should see the way in which he looks at me when I am not looking at him.

Mark Twain once addressed an audience in the interest of his fellow-townsmen, Gen. Joseph Hawley, who was a candidate for re-election to the United States Senate, and said, in the course of a droll address:

"Gen. Hawley deserves your support, although he has about as much influence in purifying the Senate as a bunch of flowers would have in sweetening a glue-factory. But he's all right; he never would turn any poor beggar away from his door empty-handed. He always gives them something, — almost without exception a letter of introduction to me, urging me to help them."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Blower—"I sold my airship this morning."

Blinks—"Why so? Thought you liked it."

Blower—"It did not suit. Law says it must carry a light at night. The whole town comes out to see me land, and thinks I have been drinking if I do not land it steady late at night."—Judge.

W. S. Gilbert was lunching once at a country hotel, when he found himself in company with three cycling clerical men, by whom he was drawn into conversation. When they discovered who he was, one of the party asked Mr. Gilbert how he felt "in such a grave and reverend company."

"I feel," said Mr. Gilbert, "like a lion in a den of Daniels."

"I wonder why so many business men marry their stenographers?" "Probably under the mistaken assumption that they can dictate to them as easily after marriage as they did before."

A five-year-old boy who could not keep awake through a long sermon, suddenly became wide awake, and noticing that the minister was still preaching, inquired, "Mother, is it this Sunday or next Sunday?"

"For goodness' sake, Harry, why so sad?"

"The cook's left, but that isn't the worst of it; she took with her the recipe book for all the things John's mother used to make."

Noddy—There goes Waitman kiting along like a deer. I wonder if he is training for a run.

Oddie—No; on the contrary he is running for a train.

"Pa, what is a political leader?"

"A man who is able to see which way the crowd is going, and follows with loud whoops in that direction."

"Judge, did you ever try an absinthe frappe?"

"No; but I've tried a lot of fellows who have."

"I have reason to believe that Miss Smart has been trying to make a monkey of me." "Still, even at that she may have meant well."

"The man who knows just what he wants is bound to be successful." "Not half so much as the man who knows how to get what he wants."

A True Story from the Lecture Platform.

The chairman of the lecture committee was a very absent-minded man, and when he had reached that portion of his introduction of the eminent lecturer wherein it was fitting that he should mention the name of the honored visitor he forgot it completely, and in the hope that it would return unto him, began to spar for time:

"When I say that it is a household word all over this broad land of ours, from the Atlantic to Pacific, from the Penobscot to the gulf, I make no mistake. When I say that it is the name of one of the princes of literature, I but do its honored bearer scant justice. When I say that in oratory the mere mention of it calls to our minds the days of Demosthenes, I but speak the simple truth."

Still the name did not come.

"And to think that he is with us here tonight! To think that I should be privileged to stand upon this platform here, in this town, with—ab— with him!"

Still no glimmer of the immortal name.

"I can hardly believe it and yet my eyes tell me that he is here. My very being echoes to his honored name. My spirit rejoices that one like this should pause in the midst of his inspired labors to be our guest tonight!"

Identity of gentleman still elusive.

"My friends in a lifetime of happiness, and I may say of honor, among you, I have known no happiness, attained no no! I will not speak the name, for is it not graven in letters of golden fire on all our hearts? It is. And so, let me say to you simply, but in all sincerity, that he is here, that we are privileged to look upon him, to hear his voice, to drink in the wisdom of his utterances and the splendor of his eloquence."

Sits down amid uproarious applause.

How He Started in Business.

His name was Augustus Athrobaid Robinson, but in his business house where he had lately secured a position as office boy everybody called him Jim on the ground that his name was too long for business purposes.

He was very keen on retaining his position, so when a caller came in one day and made a violent complaint about a letter that had not been posted to him, Jim listened in terror.

"Where's that boy?" cried his employer in a fury. "Here, you imp, take your coat and get out of here! I'm ashamed of you! Go to the cashier and get your salary, and don't let me see you here again you wretched little bungler."

Jim, terrified and almost crying, left the office and hurried away.

The next morning his employer called at his home and the youth came to the door.

"You young donkey," exclaimed the visitor, "do you suppose I really sacked you yesterday? Of course not. Come on back to the office and every time a caller makes a complaint and I sack you, go 'round the corner till the customer's gone and then come back."

And that's how Jim started in business, grew up to be the manager of the concern and now has an office boy of his own whom he sacks regularly with every complaint that is made.

Knew Him Well.

Bigbee—I say, Smallbee, you are just the man I want to see. You have known me for five years, haven't you?

Smallbee—Yes.

Bigbee—Well, I would like you to accommodate me with the loan of $10.

Smallbee—Sorry, Bigbee, but I can't.

Bigbee—Can't! Why not?

Smallbee—Because I've known you for five years.

All Imagination.

Berk, aged four, insisted on running off to play with a little girl his age. His mother told him that a dog might bite him if he didn't stay at home. He answered that he would hit the mother, "but you had no stick." And Berk replied, "And there wasn't any dog with a stick." "Yes," said his dog either.

"With one wave of my wand," says the fairy, "I can make you grow young again."

"Excuse me," replied the woman. "If I decline your kind offer. If you can bring youth to me at my present age, all right; but I positively refuse to travel back through pyrography, the first stages of bridge, the habit back, the straight front, balloon sleeves and all the rest of the fads I can remember."

"Why are you sore at Miss Skreacher?"

"When she was urged to sing something at the party last night, she said: 'Oh, I can't sing!'"

"Well?"

"Well, she went ahead and proved it."

"To what does your father attribute his health and success?" "He always foresaw just what was going to happen next."

"So did my dad. And it worried him to death."

"You haven't had time to make any friends? Then you have lived in vain."

"Not on your life, I've managed to make some bully enemies!"

"Pa, what's a protagonist?"

"A protagonist? Why, a protagonist is—er—ong who protags."

WHY SO WEAK?

Kidney Troubles May be Sapping Your Life Away. Dixon People Have Learned This Fact.

When a healthy man or woman begins to run down without apparent cause, becomes weak, languid, depressed, suffers backache, headache, dizzy spells and urinary disorders, look to the kidneys for the cause of it all. Keep the kidneys well and they will keep you well. Doan's Kidney Pills make sick kidneys well. Here is Dixon testimony to prove it.

Mrs. William Toot, 512 W. Second St., Dixon, Ill., says: "I suffered for years from kidney complaint and my back ached persistently. I was so weak at times that I could not attend to my housework and nothing did me any good. Finally I got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills of Leake Bros. Co.'s Drug Store and they cured me. I feel that my experience should convince the most skeptical person of the merit of Doan's Kidney Pills. I know of a number of other people who have taken this remedy with great benefit." Statement given February 5, 1907.)

RE-ENDORSEMENT

Mrs. Toot was interviewed on Jan. 5, 1910, and she added to the above: "I have no hesitation in verifying my former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills. During the time that has since elapsed, I have taken this remedy occasionally and it has always brought prompt and effective relief."

AMBITION.

It has been well said, "It is better to have a high standard and strive to reach it than to have a standard so low that our ambitions never look up." Ambition in itself is no sin. It is only when we subordinate everything else to an ambition which does not "look up" that it may become sinful.
